10 things you need to know

Trust me, I’m a librarian!
We’re flexible

• Lessons and mini-lessons taught

• groups and individuals supervised

• Book a space through BookIt; email for TL support
  (how-to movies on Staff Hub)

Knowledge production happens here

No one really knows what a meme is, nevertheless when a good one comes around, everybody recognizes it…!

We help students to create

Students:
- research
- collaborate
- read
- use laptops
- scan/copy
- print & staple
- film
- meet
- cut & glue
- borrow
- share
- get support

Get your Hermione on!

Know Library Online is your place to find:
- books & e-books
- videos
- how-to guides (search smart, evaluate & reference)
- databases
- news & magazines
- subject links
- p&c texts (coming soon)
- and more

Your new habit:
1. Use Library Online when starting a new topic (and let us know the gaps so we can fill them)
2. Model to your classes often
Stuff happens in breaks

- Hawk-I Library Peer Advisers (monitors)
- Reading
- Research
- Study
  - Groups
  - Individuals
- Assignment production
- Printing
- Chess Club
- Book Club

I read that a group of LIBRARIANS is called a SHUSH

We ♥ technology

#geekresponsibly

e-resources, e-devices
digital curation of sites
(diigo, Scoop-it, blog, Library Online, Learning Place)
investigate new tools

Library Help Desk
troubleshoot for you
how-to log a job
teaching students and teachers how-to use tech tools

We don’t have ESP

How can we help you?

(Nothing is too difficult)
We’re here to help

Let us know!

Perhaps you’d like-

• a resource created (including class specific tabs on Library Online)
• to plan or teach assignments collaboratively
• specialist teaching (information fluencies; responsible & ethical online behaviour)
• e-learning support or class engagement through social media (eg blogs)

we buy, we find, we create for you

Nota bene:
We need time to create digital resources or purchase and process resources so please give us notice.
We change for you

Teaching changes and so does the Library.

Let us know 😊
